

Lucie Dvořáková-Liberdová

*Original Crafts
for Creatures Small
and Large
Resourceful, Playful,
Fun and Creative Inspiration*

A Workshop for Children

Acknowledgement and Dedication

This book is dedicated to all the children and parents who share a passion for discovering the hidden beauty within the ordinary world. It's a tribute to those who cherish the idea that spending time with one another is among life's most valuable treasures.

This book is also a heartfelt dedication to my twins, Radek and Vojtěch. I extend my deepest gratitude to them for the boundless wellspring of inspiration they provide and for the chance to rediscover the wonders of childhood in their company.

Original Crafts for Creatures Small and Large

Lucie Dvořáková-Liberdová

Photographs: Lucie Dvořáková-Liberdová

Templates: Lucie Dvořáková-Liberdová

Cover: Radek Střecha

Editor-in-charge: Dalibor Kumr

Technical editor: Radek Střecha

Translation: Linda Conaway Ižová

Proofreading: Richard Conaway

Published by Lucie Dvořáková-Liberdová

Year of publication 2023

www.originalvyrobky.cz

@Lucie Dvořáková - Liberdová, 2023 All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be copied or reproduced for distribution in any form or by any means without the written permission of the publisher.

ISBN 978-80-909070-4-1 (epub)

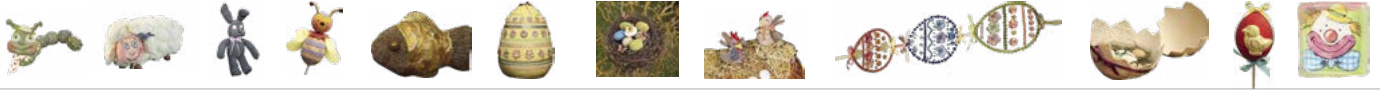

ISBN 978-80-909070-5-8 (mobi)

978-80-909070-6-5 (pdf)

ISBN 978-80-909070-7-2 (azw3)

Contents

| | | | |
|--|-----------|--|------------|
| Introduction | 4 | Magnetic Board Made of Lids | 56 |
| Materials | 6 | Folder from an Old Book and Bookmark | 58 |
| Amazing Animals | 8 | Textured Frame | 61 |
| Stocking Caterpillar | 9 | Unique Gifts | 63 |
| Sheep from Gauze and Plastic Bottle | 13 | Tin Foil Wind Chime | 64 |
| Garden Full of Animals – Decorative Stakes | 17 | A Basket Full of Secrets | 68 |
| Teddy and Rabbit from Socks | 19 | Pouch with an Elephant | 70 |
| Bumblebee and Flower | 22 | Felt Pendants | 72 |
| Magical Fish | 25 | Unconventional Birthday Card | 75 |
| Unconventional Eggs | 29 | Charming Decorations | 78 |
| Giant Chicken Wire Egg | 30 | Carton Birdhouse | 79 |
| Nest with Sand Covered Eggs | 35 | Three Different Flowers from Paper Rolls | 83 |
| Egg Quails | 38 | Smiley Kite | 87 |
| Bead Garland | 41 | Santa's Mailbox | 90 |
| Large Decorative Eggshells | 44 | Snow-covered Box Houses | 93 |
| Decorative Stakes with Raised Motifs | 48 | Crate Christmas Decoration | 98 |
| Essentials | 51 | Templates | 101 |
| Cheerful Magnets from a Box | 52 | About the Author | 104 |
| Painted Pocket Organiser and Cushion | 54 | | |

Introduction

As mentioned in the first part of this book, the most valuable thing you can give to your children is your time and interest. While there are indeed other important factors, the time spent together cannot be weighed against the greatest material possessions, which, despite appearances, do not enrich your child's inner world nearly as perfectly. On the contrary, the time spent in your presence will never be forgotten because experiences are simply unforgettable. In similar words, I began my introduction a while ago, and I must choose the same ones now—they are incredibly important. For example, every child is a little 'artist' in their own way; they enjoy creating something and always take immense joy in their work. That's why it's necessary to provide our young artists with the pleasure of hands-on work: creating things they make themselves or with someone's help. What's even better is when they experience such moments with their parents because during 'work' there is time for fun, talking, praising, and encouraging... And that's what every child needs the most. These are the moments our children will remember for a long time.

Sometimes, very little is needed to bring an original creation into the world that will impress you or someone else at home. Usually, it only takes the willingness to start working, courage, enthusiasm, and a bit of imagination. To create a unique piece, you don't even need an excessive amount of expensive materials, as you can make use of what you find at home or elsewhere, things you didn't even expect to come in handy someday.

For instance, just a few weeks ago, my six-year-old boys came to me with the wrappers from chocolate coins, saying that something could definitely be made out of them. Their positive attitude toward the material they had chosen brought a smile to my face. Firstly, because it immediately reminded me of the saying 'the apple doesn't fall far from the tree' but mainly because they were convinced that creating 'something' is simply possible—and that's the foundation of everything! The most important thing is to want it because only then everything is possible at once.

And if you try, you'll find that you don't need the latest gadgets to create something unique and beautiful in an unconventional way, entirely your own. By the way, what did the wrappers from the chocolate coins turn into? A magical fish, which you can find on page 25! You see—nothing is impossible, and anything can be created from anything!

Making interesting and unusual accessories that children can use in their games is really easy. However, I'm not saying that all the ideas I present in this book are easy and that you'll master them right away. Some are easier, yes, but the more challenging ones may take more time, but the results will be even more satisfying. In any case, the materials that can be used for their creation are usually thrown away or can be easily obtained. You might find others hidden away as no longer needed. Some may no longer serve their original purpose, so just a few steps, and another original creation is born.

So, go for it—create, experiment, try to find beauty in the little things and discover the magic in ordinary objects, even if you have to modify all the procedures in this book. I believe that with a little imagination, you can surely adjust them to your liking so that you like the finished products.

My wish for children is to be supported in the ideas they want to realize, and to stand by their ideas, because it's from conviction that the most amazing things are born. For adults, I wish they can immerse themselves as much as possible in the world of children, extend a helping hand when needed, but not interfere too much in their children's creations. They should allow their natural creativity to flourish, respect and support their ideas, and share their enthusiasm in the process.

Don't forget that even the smallest creation made by your own effort automatically becomes a real masterpiece, always hiding a piece of its creator.

I am convinced that, whether or not you manage to create any trinket together, for you—just like for me—the enthusiastic eyes of children and smiles on their faces will be the greatest reward.

I wish you beautiful, shared moments with your children while creating with this new book or by your own inspirational ideas, from the bottom of my heart.

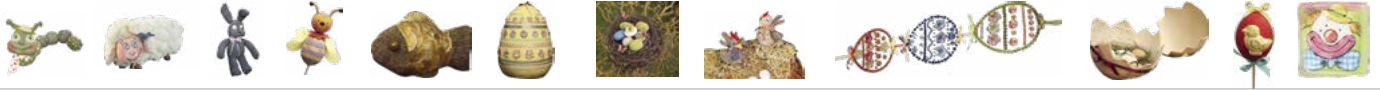

Author
Lucie Dvořáková

P.S. Barely two years have passed, and another book of creative ideas is coming into your hands. I would have never thought that the first part would receive such a response, as selling books in today's internet age is really difficult. That's why I was even more surprised. After all, preparing such a book—writing it, taking photos, and assembling a whole that makes sense—takes a lot of time and energy. During all of this, you don't even know if the title will succeed in the market. The decision to publish a book could be somewhat likened to a lottery bet, because here too, the outcome is always uncertain—both for the author and the publishing house, to whom I would like to express my gratitude for their trust. Therefore, I am immensely pleased that I didn't bet in vain. I am very glad that you found my books among the thousands of titles in stores, that they inspire you, and that, in the hurried world, you even find time to write me a kind e-mail or send photos of your creations. I am incredibly grateful for all of this, I appreciate it, and I thank all of you very much for your support.

I hope to see you again sometime in the future...

Materials

These are photographs of some material I used when making this book. At first glance, these are ordinary things—sometimes no longer needed and destined for disposal—but upon closer inspection, they represent excellent materials for creativity, readily available and usually cost nothing. I'm sure that after looking at these pictures, you'll realize that there are plenty of such items hidden in your home, and I'm convinced that you'll find even more on your own. There are so many suitable materials around us that we could create endlessly.

Tin foil

Toilet paper and craft wadding

Fruit and vegetable crates

Chicken wire

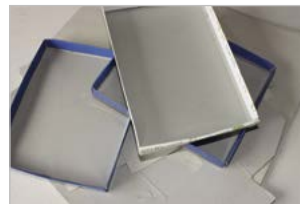

Dish and floor cloths

Chocolate boxes

Cardboard

Shoe and cake boxes

Jar lids

Large milk cartons

Metal pâté trays

Small juice boxes

Balloons

Socks

Chocolate coin wrappers

Stockings – nylons

Tin foil and plastic wrap paper rolls

Hay

Toilet paper rolls

Old CDs

Hardcovers from old books

Old frames

Plastic lids

Wadding

Plastic bottles

Linoleum scraps

Plastic soap bottles

Apricot pits

Amazing Animals

Stocking Caterpillar

Sheep from Gauze and Plastic Bottle

Garden Full of Animals – Decorative Stakes

Teddy Bear and Rabbit from Socks

Bumblebee and Flower

Magical Fish